Cards of thanks

I would like to thank Father Roy and the rest of my friends who have stayed by me during the recent death of my Dad, Frank Shearer. Your prayers and flowers have helped soften the unexpected passing of a great man.

Dad and Mom often enjoyed the hospitality of the Grayling area, and were happiest when they were able to canoe the AuSable. In 1979, '80 and '81, they could be seen at some Grayling Junior Pro basketball or Little League baseball games. They even managed to attend a Grayling varsity football game before Mom lost her battle to cancer.

I will cherish always the memories of when we were able to experience the Grayling north as a family.

Grayling can become number one destination spot in state

Several years ago on the occasion of a Grayling Uptown District Association's Annual Dinner similar to this year's, I gave a talk which began with the words, "I have a dream." That night we together looked at the exciting possibilities of brick walkways, vintage street lights and colorful Victorian storefronts. Together we dreamed of a town that would be an exciting place to live and work and do business. We dreamed that Grayling might become the number one destination spot in Michigan.

Nearly ten years later, very little of that dream has become reality. Old money, distrust and fear, traditional thinking, politics, and a city that has no plan each took a piece of the vision and trampled it with questions about whether it is realistic.

Yet, we must not ask whether a alternative futures to the single one the the dread of endings and a new way of to ask if our imagination has been so assaulted and co-opted by status-quo thinking that we have been robbed of alternative thought.

vision can be implemented, for incapable of facing its own death. All questions of implementation are of no consequence until the vision can be imagined. The imagination must come because it is too costly to those before the implementation. Our culture is competent to implement almost them. anything and to imagine almost nothing. Thus, the dominate reality of the dreamer.

(This first appeared in the Avalanche on March 20, 1941. Wesley Smith of Frederic has an original clipping of it. The poem is about Harold "Spike" MacNeven, former owner of Spike's Keg O'Nalls.)

Spike's St. Patrick's Day Party

The wind outside it howled and roared and did it ever blow! Spike paced the floor — first up then down and was he feeling low? "My party's ruined," he told the gang. "Just what am I to do? With this date all set and now this storm, no wonder I feel blue. My green beer's here, my favors came, my plans have all been made. I've even got the dance floor waxed, ready for Courtade. But Heaven help Floyd's weary soul, I should show him some pity, For he's stuck someplace in a big snowbank

'tween here and Traverse City. Then between the howls of the wind they heard a noise at the outside door,

Five men rolled in and fell full length exhausted on the floor. "We're lost and frozen" they all cried. "We don't know where to go; We had started north to several points, all set to give a show. But we can't go on, the roads are blocked, so here we'll have to stay, Besides we've traveled many miles, and we'll just call it a day." "Did I hear you say a show," Spike said, "and what kind might it be?" "We're a cowboy band," one answered up, "for the Harvester Company." Spike gasped and sputtered, then he sank into the nearest chair; "That's music to my ears my friends, and an answer to my prayer. Bring in your homs and drums and stuff and get prepared to play. I'll have my party just the same, and in a great big way." And it really was a party in spike of drifts that blocked the door. For they entered through the windows to gain entrance to the floor.

The wind outside it howled and roared and did it ever blow! But Spike was feeling merry and a long, long way from low, For things had gone so smooth and clicked and everyone was gay,

And it was the sweetest ending for old St. Patrick's Day.

Jail plans concern South Bend couple

We have been traveling to Grayling for nearly 30 years and even consider eventually spending our retirement there. We really enjoyed the good health care and peace of mind knowing that the neighborhood is reasonably safe and secure.

The expansion of the jail is making us have second thoughts about that security and peace of mind. Also, we have been told that when a prisoner causes trouble or escapes, it is up to the county where the escape took place to pay for all court costs even if the prisoner is from some other area. We wonder if this jail rental idea would reduce property taxes or just create more (or less) dollars for the local government to spend?

There must be other ways to create revenues other than more prisoners.

Let's Talk About It

By Joe Murphy

For the past 113 years come August, there have been Stephans here in Crawford County. In August, 1880, the ten members of the family arrived from Le Harve, France. Their first home here was a woodshed which they rented from a widow, Mrs. Horton, who lived east of Grayling, close to where they intended to settle. Soon they were busy clearing land, and with lumber bought from the Salling Hanson Company here in Grayling, a home was soon built. The children, when they started school, knew very little of the English language, but they soon overcame that handicap and all became good and productive citizens of this area.

The tapes that Bud Stephan loaned me were very interesting for his stories of many events of his life almost parallel my own. His telling of cutting ice on Kyle Lake reminded me of the days they cut ice on May Lake at Frederic. That was the big event of our winter for they would let us kids ride on the sleighs on their trips back and forth to the lake. I did not enjoy as good fishing as they had down river, but I had to try what we had available.

All of us who lived through those hard days of the thirties have a common bond of knowing how to make our own entertainment for our parents did not have the money to buy the toys children take for granted today. The family garden was the main source of a family's winter food supply and all family members were expected to help in its care. then, had to be picked and canned to add to the family larder. Very few people lived high on the hog in those days for even those who had a job, in most cases, received starvation wages. Even folks who had a car sitting in the garage could not afford the gas and license plates to keep it on the road. I can recall several cars that sat in garages in Frederic all through the depression that were sold for scrap during the war.

The Stephan family and the AuSable River was a fine example of being in the right place at the right time. It was not long before they were guiding visiting fishermen and hunters and providing room and board as the large family home became Edgewater resort. Rental cabins were soon added and the idea of farming faded as the possibilities offered by their river location was realized. Bud Stephan's memories of those early days on the famous AuSable and the people he knew back in those days would make a very interesting book. Thank you Bud, for sharing your memories of your younger days with me. I intend make do. As children we learned to to share more of your memories with my readers in future columns.

I have some forms at Goodale's Bakery and the Avalanche for placing orders for my new book, A Country Boy's Faith. If I can get fifty advance orders I will get it published. That will cover my cost The berries, which were so abundant of publishing and proceeds on the sale of the remaining two hundred will go to the Christian Help Center.

Medallion hunt should go on

In response to Amy Kolka's letter, I would like to ask her if she had been in my place, would she have refused the Grayling dollars? Give me a break, Amy, you wouldn't have refused the prize money either.

"Medallion Hunt call-off," Mike Shearer asked if we all agreed that we'd share equally and we all did. He then stated that he'd have to take our decision back to the chamber and proceeded to get our names and telephone numbers. He then showed us all where he had dropped the Medallion, but it was no longer in place because of all the shoveling. At that point my son told Mike that he'd go and borrow his friend's metal detector, but his friend wasn't home. Mike also indicated that same night that he had to get the chamber's okay on what we had agreed on. He never said that we couldn't keep on looking. We took it for granted that the chamber would go along with our agreement and that the hunt was over. Mike went back the next day with a metal detector, but it wouldn't pick up the medallion.

I am a faithful and dedicated hunter. Before you criticize someone, out in the cold, standing around, I think you should get all the facts first. Uptown District members entertained at association's annual dinner District's annual dinner began on a Buchanan at the Framery II. serious note with a short, but poignant speech by Terry Dickinson, past president. Dickinson outlined some of the challenges the Grayling Uptown District Association has faced over the past ten years in their attempt to fulfill their part in the vision that, "Grayling has within its grasp the ability to become the number one destination spot in Michigan." The potential, according to Dickinson, remains vital, but requires a dying of sorts to status-quo ways of thinking.

Lanice Ruben was introduced as the new president of the board for 1993. Judy Weaver Dickinson as vicepresident, Moe McNamara as treasurer, and Mary Coy as secretary. The other members of the board of directors are Shelley Radzwion, Paula Buchanan, D. J. Brown, and Allison Wyman.

Then Bob Bloenk entered with a roar of laughter, music, and magic interspersed with his own home-spun philosophy. The first portion of his act took the audience on a philosophical stroll through popular music from the 40s to the present, with a special spoof on "the King" of rock-n-roll, Elvis. Then he moved into the field of magic, with each act punctuating a thought or an idea about how life should work. The humorous conclusion to his act was the "Grayling Hat Dance" by four of Grayling's business persons, who then formed a percussion section trying to follow Bloenk's lead in several songs.

Several door prizes from the Uptown merchants were given away. Larry Porter walked away with the grand prize, a limited edition print by Terry Dickinson which had been enhanced

by DR. STEPHEN THOMPSON

When is the most dangerous time in the life of dentures (sometimes called false teeth - but not by dentists)? The most dangerous period is when your dentures are out of your mouth!

Dentures should be handled carefully when they're out of your mouth. Dropping them even a few inches into a washbowl can break them. Hold your dentures over a towel or a basin half-filled with water. Then, should they slip from your hand, there will be a cushion to help prevent damage.

When dentures are out of your mouth for any length of time, they should be placed in water or a cleansing solution. If they become dry, they can warp. Dentures should NEVER be placed in hot water. Hot water can warp the plastic.

If your denture does break, do not try to put it together yourself. Solvents found in some glues can damage denture plastics and irritate your mouth. It is almost impossible to precisely align broken parts. If you try, the denture will fit poorly and be eve worse, harmful. Go eur entist for repair.

Latusek earns citizen award

The Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms has announced that Donald Latusek of Grayling has been selected to receive a Citizen of the Year Award.

"If it weren't for people like Donald Latusek, our Constitutional rights would have been eroded years ago," stated Alan Gottlieb, chairman of the Citizens Committee.

Criteria for selection of the Citizen of the Year Award is based upon the activities of individual members. Such as being active in local, state and national gun rights issues, by writing editors of newspapers, contacting elected officials or appearing for public testimony.

Kmart Store Walkers

TO: Grayling Area Residents FROM: Paul Lokai - Kmart

Some of our customers have asked if they could bring their walking shoes into our Grayling Kmart store before the store opens and get some exercise. We think it's a great idea!

Any Grayling area resident wishing to get fit walking our aisles should stop in between 7:00 am and 8:15 am Monday through Saturday.

Because those hours are a busy time for us stocking shelves and cleaning up - you will need to use some extra caution and you may need to dodge boxes on the floor and stock carts on the move. But if you're willing to put up with our "early morning obstacle course" in exchange for some good exercise, we're happy to have you with us.

The only things you need to do are: 1) sign this form and drop off at the Grayling Kmart and 2) show up!

Yes, I would like to participate in the early morning walks through your store anytime between 7:00 am and 8:15 am Monday through Saturday. I do understand that because the store is not open for business during those times and because there may be hazardous conditions I wouldn't normally find in the store, I will use the store aisles at my own risk and I will not hold Kmart Corporation liable if I am injured while participating in an early morning walk.

GHS Players have all the right ingredients except big crowd for successful performance

By Nancy Lemmen

The Grayling High School Players had all the right ingredients -- but one --- for a successful performance of The Importance of Being Earnest by Oscar Wilde on last Friday evening.

The actors were convincing, the costuming was excellent, the make-up was professional and the stage set was creative. Only size of the audience Bracknell, gave a virtuoso was disappointing — with about 100 people in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium, which seats four times that number.

Director David Glicker, an English instructor at GHS, said he also was audience.

"The Friday night performance I'd give an A+," said Glicker. "The kids performed so well, they definitely deserved a bigger crowd."

Saturday evening's crowd was slightly larger, with about 125 in the audience, he said.

Too bad. This was one of the two productions presented annually by the theatre department, and — as Glicker implied — the cast deserved better attendance. Furthermore, it is unfortunate that the community does not make a better showing — both to support the young cast and crew and also because high school productions are such fun to watch.

The fun, of course, comes mainly from watching kids play characters very different from themselves on stage; and one's good time is elevated when the cast rises above its young collective age to reach an outstanding — if not professional — level of audience's response following the Friday evening performance — the actors did just that.

"I was really pleased with performance, but I think they came

Most of the plot, in fact, revolves around the fact that Gwendolen and Cecily have decided they will marry only men by the name of Ernest. John and Algernon both assume that alias in their efforts to woo the two. Of course, their ruses are discovered and the engagements are terminated, leading to the double meaning and moral lesson of the title — the importance of being Ernest/earnest.

We Remember

Voices iong stilled, speak once again Bodies long in the grave, rise to run and play As in my mind I turn time back in memory To a beautiful chlidhood springtime day

It had been a long cold winter Now at long last the ground was bare The warm air and sun light was calling To all the children sitting there

It was pure torture to sit in that classroom As springtime sang its sirene song And though we tried to work on our lessons It seemed every answer was wrong

Our teacher was the understanding kind Or perhaps she was remembering her own childhood years For when she said, "Let's go for a walk this afternoon" The room was filled with cheers

We took a walk down to the river in golden sunshine Sat there talking and laughing on its banks For our wonderful, understanding teacher Each of us were giving thanks

I remember each of those happy smiling faces And all the Joy we shared that day It's a beautiful way to remember Those schoolmates who have passed away

Teacher, thank you for being understanding And for all those wonderful memories you made Is it any wonder we think of you with love Whenever we think of our teacher Ruth Cald

RECLAIMED LAND—The same general area in Engineer Valley after it has been coated with soil in preparation for planting.

It was suggested by biologists that the native grass seeds would go much further in guaranteeing that germination and growth would occur. Hunt said.

The valley was planted with 1,000 red pine and 650 shrubs as well as seeded. The first step was to top soil an area of about 20 acres, and then close off some of the unneeded roads, Hunt said. Signs have been placed indicating that it is a land rehabilitation project.

(This is the second in a series of three articles dealing with the Integrated Training Area Management Program (ITAM) at Camp Grayling. It will help determine the land's ability to support training with the least impact on natural resources including wildlife habitat. The first article discussed a plant and animal survey by the Nature Conservancy. The last article will deal with a data retrieval system which will interpret information such as maps that will specify, for instance, hardwood forests on camp property.)

These such as the Kirtland's Warbler plots, under a program called Land management area, the irrigation area Condition Trend Analysis, will provide next to the water treatment plant and places hit hardest by the gypsy moth." Other locations will include spots of heavy training such as those where tracked vehicles travel or where troops bivouac regularly. Hunt noted that by looking at the data on an area with heavy damage and another that has suffered less and comparing it with type of soil and ground cover on each, it will be possible to assign locations that will be less likely to be harmed.

> At the beginning of the program the Corps of Engineers Research Laboratory, who designed the entire project, selected 180 plots at random. They were computer picked, Hunt pointed out, but picked so that there is a good representation of soil types and cover. Each spot will be monitored every year to determine if there are any changes such as growth of trees, height of plants and identification of new plants, Hunt said. Each year's information will add to the data so that better conclusions can be obtained, he

"These groups have many research ideas but no funding," he commented. "We have the methodology, the plots, the equipment and people to assist these groups," Hunt said.

The new Bonus Lotto!

It's an all new game with bigger jackpots and a bonus ball that gives you more chances to win than ever before!

More money than ever before!

Bonus Lotto starts with a guaranteed $4 million jackpot - and rolls over by $4 million every time!

More chances to win!

Players win the Grand Prize by matching 6 of 47 numbers drawn. BUT, if you don't match all six, there are still more chances to win. Because a 7th ball is then drawn - called the Bonus Ball. The Bonus Ball gives players even more chances to win more cash prizes. Here's how:

Match all 6 numbers drawn and you win the Jackpot!

Match 5 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $50,000!

Match 4 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $1,000!

Match 3 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $100!

Match 2 of the 6 numbers drawn plus the bonus ball and you win $4.

$2 is all it takes!

Each Bonus Lotto wager costs $2.00 and is valid for the next Lotto drawing unless multiple drawings are selected. If multiple draws are played, a player can play up to 20 consecutive draws.

One drawing, once a week!

Bonus Lotto drawings are now held just once a week - every Saturday at 7:30 p.m. on the Megabucks television show. Check your local television listings for the television station in vour area.
